

Reagan, in Illinois today, says he will update disclosure

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican presidential aspirant Ronald Reagan says he plans to update a financial statement he disclosed under state law when he left office as governor of California.

Reagan's announcement came Thursday night in the wake of a full financial statement released earlier in the day by President Ford showing his net worth to be $323,489.

Reagan was to make four stops in northern Illinois today in an effort to pick up support for delegates in the March 16 Illinois primary. He flies to Florida tonight.

"There is a California state law...that requires anybody upon leaving office to make a financial statement," Reagan said after a delayed landing at

O'Hare International Airport on the eve of a one-day campaign swing through northern Illinois. "There has been no change in my situation since then."

Reagan, 65, said he "didn't know" of Ford's earlier disclosure.

Asked if he planned to add to the statement he released when his term of office ended, Reagan turned to exchange whispered words with an aide, then said, "We're going to have some additional information to bring that (statement) up to date which will be made available."

He did not say when the information would be made public.

In January 1975 Reagan filed a "Statement of Economic Interests" with California's secretary of state. Under California law, the statement gives amounts only in terms of "over" or "under" $10,000. No totals are given for income, assets or liabilities.

Reagan listed three real estate properties, including two ranches, valued at more than $10,000 apiece. He also listed investments of more than $10,000 each in Continental Illinois Properties, Beneficial Standard Investors and Salant Corp. All three investments are in revocable trusts set up by Reagan in 1966, the year he was elected.

Though his total worth is unknown, the three pieces of real estate, all in California, have a total market value of $2,363,000.

Reagan's 1975 earnings from lectures, his radio program and newspaper columns was estimated by the San Francisco Examiner to be $700,000, which the newspaper said was the highest one-year income he ever had. A source close to the candidate said the Examiner estimate was "pretty accurate."

Reagan, whose appearance in Illinois followed his fifth campaign swing through New Hampshire before that state's Feb. 24 primary, canceled a scheduled news conference at O'Hare and his entourage motored off to Kankakee for the night.

About 15 reporters had waited for Reagan's arrival as his chartered plane circled the airport for more than 1½ hours.

Frazier to speak at opening

B. J. Frazier, retired principal of Dixon High School, who fondly remembers one of his former students who now is a candidate for President of the United States, will speak at the opening of the Ronald Reagan headquarters at 124 S. Galena Ave., Monday at 7 p.m.

State Sen. David Shapiro, R-Amboy, coordinator, Lee County Citizens for Reagan, will be master of ceremonies at the headquarters' opening ceremonies.

Reagan volunteers note the headquarters is located on the old historic trail between Peoria and Galena which has been travelled by persons since the 1820s, and is near the Nachusa House which has stood since the middle of the 19th Century and has had as its guests many famous Americans, including Abraham Lincoln. In addition to this, they note, the headquarters is across from the Lee County Courthouse Square which is land given to the county by Father John Dixon in 1830.

The Reagan headquarters will be open daily.

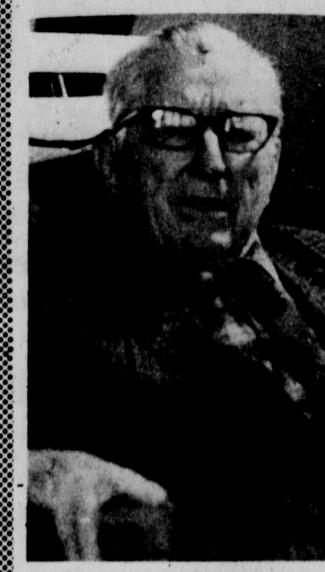

In addition to Frazier and Shapiro, top executives from newspapers in the county will be present.

Also taking part in the ceremonies will be J. Herbert Henning, chairman, Lee County Republican Central Committee, and Mrs. Coletta Theiss, Sublette, Lee County Republican chairwoman.

During the evening a tape supplied by WSDR radio will be played, on which Reagan talks about his candidacy for President.

Sue Wilson, newest member of the Dixon Evening Telegraph news staff, picked today, Friday the 13th, to defy a couple of old superstitions. She wasn't hesitant to walk under the ladder or open the umbrella indoors. She didn't press her luck far enough to break a mirror and she didn't go in search of a black cat to walk across her path. She wouldn't comment on whether she had a rabbit's foot or four-leaf clover with her on this, the traditional day for bad luck. (Telegraph Photo)

Use of Haymarket Park is requested

By BILL SHAW
Requests from two groups for use of Park District property were discussed at the Dixon Park Board's February meeting held Thursday night.

The Dixon Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to Board President Ralph Contreras, asked to reserve Haymarket Square for a Farmer's Market. The market was initiated in 1975 to help small producers in the area sell excess garden products and give local shoppers the opportunity to buy the fresh produce directly from the producers. Last year's market was held in a parking lot adjacent to Dixon Public Library.

Haymarket Square, located at the corner of Highland Avenue and Second Street, was originally given to the city with the stipulation that, if a market reappeared, the area would be made available.

Board members were generally favorable to the Farmer's Market, but decided to postpone their approval until details, including exact location in the park and clean-up procedures, could be worked out.

A letter from Chapel Hill Funeral Home was also considered. That letter requested that the Park Board allow planting of memorial trees on Park District property. The plantings are part of a promotion by the funeral home. Under an arrangement with Lohse Nursery, the trees are to be "Living Memorials" to deceased individuals.

Magdich identified four methods of raising money for the park district. One possible way would be to raise taxes by a referendum. Magdich indicated that the Park Board had the power to seek the authority to raise taxes by five-tenths of one per cent of assessed valuation. That maximum increase would bring up to $300,000 into the park budget. Magdich was asked by board members to investigate possibilities of seeking a lower increment limit.

Board member Pat Jones said, "If we don't get the amount of money that is necessary now, future park boards will be in deeper trouble."

Magdich was assigned to check with the Illinois Association of Park Districts for more information regarding referendums.

Other possible methods of raising money for the park operations, according to Magdich, were annexing more taxable territory, leasing property to people or groups wishing to use the land, or selling some of the park property. Magdich indicated that the issuance of bonds would not be applicable to general operations of the park.

Wholesale prices remained stable in January as another big drop in farm prices offset increases for industrial goods, the government said today.

The Labor Department said prices actually rose four-tenths of a per cent last month but after adjustment for seasonal variations, the wholesale price index was unchanged.

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, said that inventories of the nation's businesses declined by $526 million in December and fell a total of $5.5 billion during all of 1975.

By contrast, inventories increased $46.6 billion in 1974.

While inventories were declining in 1975, sales increased only slightly, reflecting the depressed business conditions during the year. Commerce said combined business sales increased one per cent in December and only 2.4 per cent in the year.

In 1974, business sales had increased 14 per cent.

Since rising 1.8 per cent in October, wholesale prices showed no change in November and declined an adjusted four-tenths of a per cent in December. Over the past three months, they have declined at an adjusted annual rate of 1.7 per cent.

This continued moderation of inflationary pressures and the report last week of a sharp drop in the nation's unemployment rate gives support to the Ford administration's forecast of continued economic recovery in the new year.

It also offered consumers the prospect of an easing in retail prices in the coming months, as trends in wholesale prices usually are reflected later at the retail level.

In January, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 1.8 per cent following declines of 2.5 per cent in December and 1.2 per cent in November.

The decline in agricultural products offset a four-tenths of a per cent increase in industrial commodities.

Over the past 12 months, wholesale prices were up 4.4 per cent. The index stood at 179.4, meaning that it cost $179.40 to purchase a variety of goods that sold at wholesale for $100 in the 1967 base period.

Declining prices for live poultry, cattle, eggs and fresh vegetables led a 2.8 per cent drop in farm prices last month. The index for processed foods and feeds dropped 1.5 per cent after declining 2.9 per cent in December.

The government said prices for processed poultry, beef, veal and dairy products dropped in January, offsetting increases for manufactured animal feeds, sugar and confectionery products.

Wholesale prices for consumer finished foods — those ready for sale on supermarket shelves — declined for the third straight month, dropping 2.2 per cent in January after declining 1.3 per cent in December and four-tenths of a per cent in November.

Consumer finished goods other than food rose three-tenths of a per cent, the same as in December.

Ford vetoes job bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today vetoed a $6.1 billion public works employment bill, saying it would "do little to create jobs for the unemployed" and perhaps cost in excess of $25,000 per job.

He said the claims of the bill's sponsors that it would create 600,000 to 800,000 new jobs were "badly exaggerated."

Ford said administration experts estimated that at most, some 250,000 jobs would be created over a period of several years and the impact would come in late 1977 or 1978.

At that point, he said, the total would come to no more than 100,000 to 120,000 new jobs "barely a one-tenth of one per cent improvement in the unemployment rate."

Ford called the bill "little more than election year pork barrel," and said it had "so many deficiencies and undesirable provisions that it would do more harm than good."

He suggested instead that Congress "act quickly on my tax and budget proposals, which I believe will provide the jobs for the unemployed that we all want."

"The best and most effective way to create new jobs," the President said "is to pursue balanced economic policies that encourage the growth of the private sector without risking a new round of inflation."

He said this was the core of his economic policies which he said were expected "to foster the creation of 2 million to 2.5 million new private-sector jobs in 1976 and more than 2 million additional jobs in 1977. These will be lasting, productive jobs, not temporary jobs paid only by the American taxpayer."

Backers of the bill contend it would create some 600,000 jobs with grants of $2.5 billion to state and local governments for construction or improvements of schools, sewers, roads and other public works projects.

It would be aimed at helping construction and related industries that have been hardest hit by the recession.

Witnesses told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Sheriff's Information Officer Anthony Silas said investigators were still searching for the murder weapon. He said there was no immediate indication of the motive for the attack.

Jackson told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Magdich addressed the financial problems facing the park system. The Park District is presently operating at a deficit for the second consecutive year. That deficit is expected to reach $40,000 this year in relation to the $105,000 budget for operating Dixon parks.

Magdich identified four methods of raising money for the park district. One possible way would be to raise taxes by a referendum. Magdich indicated that the Park Board had the power to seek the authority to raise taxes by five-tenths of one per cent of assessed valuation.

Other possible methods of raising money for the park operations, according to Magdich, were annexing more taxable territory, leasing property to people or groups wishing to use the land, or selling some of the park property. Magdich indicated that the issuance of bonds would not be applicable to general operations of the park.

Taxpayers now pay 27.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation for park purposes. Of that, eight cents is for non-referendum bonds, scheduled to be retired in 1978.

Jackson made a motion to instruct Magdich to investigate the legality of House Bill No. 194, after a letter was received requesting payment of $947 for tax collection expenses of the Lee County Treasurer.

Payment will be held pending the outcome of Magdich's investigation.

Superintendent of Recreation Rich Sedowski requested that Sauk Valley College be allowed to use Reynolds Field for a baseball tournament in mid-May. The request was approved.

The board approved monthly bills amounting to $1,318.08.

What is your situation?

Is America in a mess? Have we become less observant of our laws? Do some judges sidestep the real intent of the law and just scold the lawbreakers before turning them loose? Have we become a better nation since woman suffrage?

Think these questions over and make your own decisions.

If we are in a mess, are there signals of what is wrong?

Your financial standing is larger, but can you buy as much? Can you walk the streets or sit in the park at night as freely as the people did 50 years ago?

What signals have you received that we are in a bad situation? We have had moral and political errors that have led children astray. What has caused this?

Inflation is one signal. What causes it? Congress spending more money than it takes in as taxes. It is necessary to print more dollars to pay for the laws they pass. The dollar then is worth less. People have to have more dollars to buy the necessary living conditions.

But if Congress is at fault, how did we get in this condition, for we elected them. Three-fourths of the newspapers and the three television companies did not tell the people the truth about the men and women running for public office. The voters were misled and spendthrifts were elected to office. So it is communication that is our number-one problem.

How can it be corrected? It would be wonderful if someone or some group knew. I do not know. Would think that people would stop buying the papers that do not tell the truth.

The Democratic Party leaders have passed laws that encourage workers to quit their jobs and go on unemployment compensation program. In many states these funds are about gone. The states are trying to increase taxes to build up this fund.

The Ford administration is going along with the Labor Department's higher federal benefits, set only somewhat lower than those proposed by leading Democrats.

Teachers at odds over militant muscle

The muscles being developed by the teaching profession are not welcomed by all its members.

"The Militant Teacher's Bicentennial Calendar," published in the National Education Association's (NEA) monthly newspaper, the Reporter, drew the following letters to the editor:

"As a member of NEA I wish to voice my objection to the heading on the calendar in the January issue of the NEA Reporter. I do not care to be known as a member of a militant teacher movement, which, it seems to me, is happening to NEA."

"In the past I've been proud of what NEA has stood for. Now, I am no longer proud of my association with this organization."

"Of this, I want no part," wrote "Dedicated Teacher, 1926-68."

"I'm disgusted," wrote another. "Your whole attitude is wrong."

Another retired teacher also voiced this opinion:

"I . . . totally oppose strikes by public employees. No one should be permitted to shut down a government operation, for which taxes have been levied. Moreover, public employees are a part of government, and strikes by government are intolerable and undemocratic too."

"Strikes by government employees are a step on the road to chaos and anarchy, as well as defiance of the voters and elected officials."

This last has echoes of Calvin Coolidge's pronouncement during a police strike in Boston in 1919 that "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, anytime."

And no doubt the Coolidge era is exactly where many of today's militant teachers will say these letter-writers and their quaint beliefs belong.

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA)—As near as can be determined it was the hideous Charles Manson who popularized the notion that murder is lovely and should be photographed.

He suggested, in fact, that he had actually taken "snuff films" of some of his artistic aberrations. The idea being, in his swampy mind, that only moving pictures can adequately capture the reality of, say, a knife slaughter.

Gruelous. But leave it to American ingenuity to capitalize on the idea. A low-grade movie called "Snuff" is currently being distributed to selected cities, largely in the East, along with the pointed implication that most of the players are actually killed in the plot. Advertised as something "that could only be filmed in South America, where life is cheap," the flick features torturing, dismemberment and an imaginative assortment of at least 18 murders.

The thought of it if not the sight of it has stunned those few who have heard of the film. A television movie critic in Boston has recently advised her viewers that "it is no hoax," that unaware actresses were undeniably killed in the movie, that it was detestable to even imagine the victims struggling in horror to escape.

Police in New York, Philadelphia and Washington have been advised. A spokesman for the American Motion Picture Association says the whole thing is unspeakable. Even the FBI is looking into the matter.

Well, relax. Authorities who have investigated "Snuff" say it is simply capitalism at work. Jim Kelley, Marion County, Ind., prosecutor, says the film was premiered in Indianapolis as a legal test and found to be disgusting, astoundingly sadistic but lawful.

"What it is, probably, is an old film made in South America and updated here in the United States. The promoters apparently shot a bunch of gore scenes and spliced them to the original. But it's all simulated. When the saw cuts through a body, for example, it makes the same sound when it hits the bone as it does in the flesh. What we've done here is to make the promoter put a disclaimer in his advertisements, saying nobody was actually harmed. And that is that."

That is, however, not quite that. There is perhaps a meaning even in this sorry fraud. Al Shackleton, the New York distributor of "Snuff," says the film was originally pornographic, but the sex scenes were cut to conform to U.S. obscenity laws. This then is the meaning: In its Bicentennial year, the United States remains a society where sex is suspicious—but as for violence, that is that.

Confusing? Assuredly. A few

We're first, by gum

Americans can lay claim to the dubious distinction of being the world's No. 1 gum chewers, by far. They chew 200 million pounds of gum a year, or 200 sticks apiece—and all of it is deposited on the theatre seat we sit down in.

Talk about jaws. If all the energy expended by millions of them working up and down all day long could somehow be harnessed, the oil sheiks would be holding going-out-of-business sales.

Seriously, according to industry statistics, 92 per cent of all kids between 12 and 15 chew gum, an average of 20 sticks a week. Even among people 65 or older, 24 per cent chew gum.

Psychologists claim that gum chewing is an "adult pacifier" and that in times of stress, personal or public, chewing of gum escalates.

The most ardent gum chewers dwell in the Southwest, where an average of 15 sticks are purchased weekly by consumers of all ages. (Maybe that's why a discouraging word is seldom heard.)

Most popular flavor is spearmint, with peppermint a close second and cinnamon third. One of every five packs sold is the sugarless variety. Worldwide sales of bubble gum exceed $100 million.

Speaking of the world market, the outlook is definitely, uh, toothsome, according to John Alar, president of Warner-Lambert's American Chicle.

"We're going to see more world growth in this market than we ever believed was possible . . . Even in this country, where gum has been part of the scene for years, there is more awareness and appreciation of its benefits and pleasures than ever before. We see much more gum chewing in public . . . This trend appears to be consistent with the trend toward more open expression."

Yeh. And open mouths.

ZPG takes own medicine

Zero Population Growth, Inc., reports that it has been experiencing its own population explosion. In a single six-week period, the staff of the Washington-based organization zoomed by 33 per cent.

This trend means that by 9:37 a.m. on Jan. 1 in the year 2001, every square foot of the earth's surface would be occupied by a ZPG staffer.

Fortunately, the ZPG has determined to maintain zpg with a total of 16 people. "Long-run stability at about that number has been assured," it says in its newsletter, "since the carrying capacity of the office has been reached."

Toleration of brutality

years ago in Washington, during the trial of the owner of a pornographic theater, the prosecution attempted to prove that a film depiction of a rape was sexually stimulating, thus of appeal to prurient interest. Never mind the knocking about of the victim, or the terrible threats and humiliation. The violence of the scene was of no legal amount; the jury merely wanted to know if it was sexy, and thus only could they agree the rape was antisocial.

Gad. Towns that still require drugstores to keep "Playboy" under the counter have theaters that invite the kids to see "Chain Saw Massacre." Parents in some states raise hell over textbooks that describe sex hygiene, but sit with their children through years of television bloodletting. A person in California can carry a gun in the streets, but is arrested as a menace if caught nude on the beach. Small wonder that brutality is edging out affection in the republic and that a freak like Charley Manson needs no introduction save his name.

The paradox is intolerable. A solution, however, is evasive. Perhaps the idea of a purposely anonymous Indianapolis cop is as good as any. He says he's seen the "Snuff" film, a suggests it be shown everywhere in America.

"There are no laws against it," he says, "there is not even a moral code to prevent it. So I think everybody should see the saw cutting the legs, see the blood shoot out the bullet holes and see the people dying in all their agony."

After 90 minutes of it, the cop suggests, without a hint of facetiae, this 200-year-old nation might have done some growing up.

Landfill provides greenhouse heat

By DON OAKLEY

Vegetables grown in urban greenhouses heated by fuel derived from urban wastes could help alleviate the financial, unemployment and welfare problems of our cities, as well as make a dent in the energy crisis.

So says an organization called Research-Resource of Canton, Ohio, which has to be the world's smallest "think tank."

R-R at the present time is the husband-and-wife team of Frank and Carol Breckbill, who believe that "we, the people" must start solving more of our own problems rather than letting big government or big business do it all.

A hundred tons of garbage a day, most of it burnable, is now going to the Canton city landfill, they note. Instead, it could be delivered to air-tight pits or silos, where methane gas and compost could be generated for use in greenhouses. A new industry could be created, with people learning how to plan, harvest and perhaps package and retail vegetables.

The idea is not entirely new, says R-R. A several-hundred-acre greenhouse complex on the edge of Leningrad, USSR, supplies nearly 75 per cent of the vegetable needs of the city's 4.5 million inhabitants.

Vegetable growers would not need to fear competition from urban greenhouses. R-R also notes that cellulose—plant material—can be converted by bacterial action directly into clean-burning alcohol as a supplemental fuel for internal combustion engines. City vegetable farming could release hundreds of acres for new, intensive vegetation growth for both alcohol and methane conversion.

With a little planning, a whole new urban Garden of Eden could be just around the technological corner, says R-R: fruit trees under glass, rice paddies, maybe even like bananas and oranges.

The Breckbills invite comment and criticism regarding their idea. "Perhaps through more of us cooperating," they hope, "we can find nature's on-going, replenishable energies and fit them into our nation's needs to keep and maintain a good and viable, long-lasting standard of living, while our fossil and mineral energies dwindle to a memory."

DEAR DICK: Could you explain what the movie ratings mean, and do you think they are a good thing?—G. JORDAN, Pueblo, Colo.

The Motion Picture Association rates films and gives them either a G (all ages admitted), a PG (parental guidance suggested), an R (restricted; under 17 requires accompanying parent or guardian), or an X (no one under 17 admitted). Yes, I think the idea of rating films is a good one. The problem, of course, arises in the administration of any such program. You can't weigh a movie on a scale and say it weighs such-and-such, therefore it's a PG. The judgment must be made by a man and men are fallible. Within those limits, I approve of the rating system—but I wish they'd let me do the rating.

DEAR DICK: I recently saw a film of the late '30s called "Stanley and Livingstone." The actor who portrayed Stanley looked familiar but I couldn't place him. Who was he and is he still alive?—F. MILLER, Lethbridge, Alta., Can.

This letter really astounded me. The actor in question was Spencer Tracy. And this person says he "looked familiar but I couldn't place him." Don't tell me Spencer Tracy is being forgotten already. (OK, I won't tell you—but he's being forgotten already.) He died in 1967.

DEAR DICK: What brand is the S.W.A.T. van? Also what brand are the Emergency! trucks.—AL BREWTON, Monroeville, Ala.

The S.W.A.T. group drive around in a Metro, which is a truck made by International, while the Emergency! squad has a Dodge vehicle, although it has been modified for TV.

DEAR DICK: Recently I heard a very good song by Janice Ian. I wonder if you could give me a list of her albums.—VICTOR M. DE BARLETTA, Dorchester, N.B., Can.

From what I can find out, Miss Ian has made three albums, to wit: "Between the Lines" and "Stars," both for Columbia, and "Present Company" for Capitol.

DEAR DICK: I was shocked when I found out Howard Cosell's show was cancelled. Why was it cancelled? Also I heard that one of the characters in Barney Miller was going to have his own show. Which one?—S. W., Kenner, La.

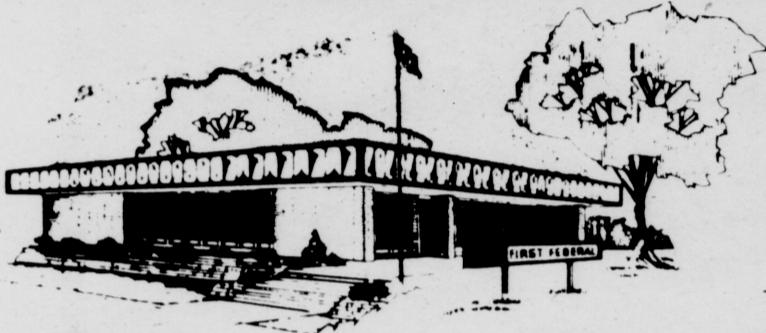

Cosell's show was cancelled because nobody watched it. Including me. I watched it once and that was plenty. About Barney Miller, it's the character of Fish (Abe Vigoda) who is being considered seriously for his own show.

Working Couples you may be able to take a Federal income tax deduction of up to $3,000

A husband and wife interested in a tax-deductible retirement program may now qualify for a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Annuity (IRA).

A working couple with no pension plan other than Social Security may each have a separate IRA and each may contribute up to the maximum based on his or her separate earnings: as much as 15% of earned income, or up to $1,500—which ever is less. Together, they may annually contribute as much as $3,000 to their tax-deferred retirement plan, if their earnings permit the maximum contribution by each.

And even if only a husband or wife is eligible, as a couple, they still enjoy added Federal income tax benefits with only one member of the family enrolled in an IRA.

Call me if you're interested.

Two money-saving tips for homeowners

Too many homeowners have outdated insurance on their property.

So a fire, a storm, vandals or burglars can destroy or steal more than your insurance covers.

With the cost of construction and repairs going up fast, it pays to update your homeowners coverage now.

It'll pay you to check with your Country Companies agent, too. Because in most cases, he can give you the coverage you want for less with a Country Mutual homeowners policy.

Make sure you're covered at today's higher home building and repair costs. And make sure you get the most for your homeowners insurance dollars—check with your Country Companies agent today.

MISS PRINDAVILLE

Wife discovers spouse is transvestite

Dear Ann Landers: I came home from a trip two days early. When I walked into the apartment I found my husband dressed in my best evening gown. He was wearing my fanciest jewelry, also my wig. When I tell you I nearly died of the shock, you can believe it.

Without saying a word, he handed me a column of yours that appeared a few years back. (I never saw it, but obviously he did.) "This will explain everything," he said, and left the room.

Here is the column, but it doesn't "explain everything." Please add some words I can hang on to while I'm trying to keep my sanity.—Marge

Dear Ann: A nice young man was arrested recently because he was wearing women's clothing while sitting in a public park. Someone started a fight with him and he flattened the guy.

As a fashion historian I can tell you that everything women wear today was once worn by males. Even corsets. During the Crusades, when men donned suits of armor they had to wear heavy undergarments to protect their bodies against the chafing of the metal. Christopher Columbus wore bloomers and long stockings. George Washington wore lace blouses and carried a silk handkerchief in his sleeve. He also wore a ribbon in his hair. Men's high heels are not new. They go back to the French Revolution. Even in the bird kingdom the male's plumage is fancier than the female's. The peacock is the best example.

So please, Ann, tell your readers that before they classify a person as "peculiar" they should stop and consider the possibility that he may be a man ahead of his time.—F.H.

Dear Marge: Your husband

Wife discovers spouse is transvestite

may well be "a man ahead of his time" but for now you must accept the fact that he is a transvestite.

Some behavioral specialists say all transvestites are practicing homosexuals. Others say they are not—that they get their jollies dressing up, and that's as far as they go.

You offer no information about your husband's habits, his friends, how long you've been married or whether you could tolerate this sort of thing if he dressed up only at home.

I hope you discuss this matter with a therapist before you make any decisions. I'm not suggesting that your husband accompany you for counseling because transvestites aren't interested in changing. The best you can expect is that he will agree not to appear in drag in your presence, if you ask him not to.

Dear Ann Landers: Frequently you advise students to go to their school guidance counselors with their problems. I teach in college. Frequently I hear students speak very disparagingly of their high-school guidance counselors. The most common complaint is that they blab.

If you continue to advise students to confide in their guidance counselors, I hope you will advise counselors to keep their mouths shut.—Disillusioned

Dear D.: Such betrayal is unconscionable and inexcusable. Any counselor who blabs should be sacked immediately—assuming, of course, that the evidence is conclusive.

'Better than this there isn't'

Blintz king stakes out new turf

By IRA BERKOW
The quest for the nation's greatest blintz ended at the door of Sam Ashkenaz's steamy, clattery, pungent kitchen.

Last summer Barbara Walters, in her "Not For Women Only" show, planned a week of ethnic food specials. Staff researchers were assigned to find the most ambrosial restaurants of five nationalities.

For Jewish-style cooking, Ashkenaz Restaurant and Delicatessen in Chicago was chosen.

And Sam Ashkenaz, with glasses gleaming under national television lights and natty in tie and clean white apron, wowed 'em by frying his stupendous, succulent, rapturous, golden and, yes, beautiful "Ashkenaz Cheese Blintz Treat," topped with blueberries and good dollops of sour cream.

Now, Ashkenaz's singular foods such as the blintz (cheese, apples, strawberries, blueberries, bananas or meat wrapped in dough), bountiful kreplach, cabbage and matzo ball soups, noodle pudding, fruit-and-nut strudel, homemade gefilte fish with a horseradish that produces the breath of dragon, kishke and borscht, fried, chopped, pickled and schmaltz herrings had not exactly gone unnoticed prior to Sam's coast-to-coast TV debut.

Sheeky Greene, the comedian, is one who has done much to fan the acclaim of Ashkenaz Restaurant. Sheeky grew up near Morse Avenue on the far north side of Chicago, where Ashkenaz is located. In his night-club routines, Sheeky often recalls Ashkenaz.

Guest-hosting the Johnny Carson show recently, Sheeky told how he ate regularly at Ashkenaz and never knew until after he joined the Navy that he was not born with heartburn.

Sheeky recalls Sam's Uncle Izzy, who never touched anything without a fork. He would jab at a pickle or kipper, peer at it, sniff it, taste it and then put the cleaned fork back in his shirt pocket. Only when his eyesight began to fail was it dangerous to keep your hands on the table around Uncle Izzy. Ashkenaz Restaurant has grown by word of mouth and by the renown of some of its customers, such as U.S. Senator Charles Percy, former Sen. Paul Douglas, Shelley Berman, Hugh Hefner, Tony Curtis, and Col. and Mrs. Henry Crown, owner of Material Services Corporation ("he's getting on in years now, and so he'll maybe call up and have the chauffeur pick up a pot of flanck," says Sam).

After some soul-searching, Federal Court Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz decided a few years back to risk bringing his guest, Dublin's Jewish Lord Mayor, Robert Briscoe, to Ashkenaz.

"The Judge knows that no one gets preferential treatment here," Sam says. "If I'd move anyone to the front of the line, you'd get 50 people screaming. There's free speech here. The Judge brought the Lord Mayor anyway because he felt the food would be worth the wait."

All this is not to say that Ashkenaz's food is faultless. Sam instructs his waitresses not to argue with a customer—particularly at the front counter—because, he says, one squawk will set off the other 18 people on adjoining stools.

But Sam's customers, some of whom have been regulars since the restaurant opened 35 years ago and can remember his mother, Ida, coming out of the kitchen and asking them to give a little taste, are loyal.

So loyal, in fact, that when it was announced that Ashkenaz Restaurant would be moving to Northbrook, a Chicago suburb, the Lieutenant Governor of Illinois, Neil Hartigan, neighbor and devotee of Ashkenaz's corned beef on pumpernickel, set in motion a "Save Ashkenaz Restaurant campaign." He claimed Ashkenaz was an institution.

Alas, the 61-year-old Ashkenaz and his challah twists and onion ryes and cherry cheese cakes and chicken livers and the 40-odd salamis that hang above the deli counter will soon trek to a suburban shopping mall.

A lot of Sam's customers have moved out there. The neighborhood of his current location has changed and Sam believes that the new residents and the new generation are more interested in fast-foods and are generally unappreciative of the kind of quality he offers.

Sam used to sell about a ton of corned beef a week, now it's down to a little better than half a ton; he still grosses over a million dollars a year in his 175-capacity eatery, but, well, there is also that loyalty to consider.

"It's harder for people to drive in to the city, and I miss my old customers," says Sam. "They are old friends."

And Sam's place is known for loyalty. Like the time poor Harry died at the corned beef sandwich, "I'll never forget it," said the waitress Betty. "Wally was beside him and he just stepped over Harry's body and continued cutting the sandwich. Well, what can you do? The show must go on."

Sam, who is in the business now with two of his sons (a third son is a dental specialist), says he looks forward to the challenge of a new place, though he acknowledges the problems with developing character in a deli-restaurant; that is, it takes years for the aroma of corned beef to soak into the woodwork.

Sam, though, is optimistic.

For he believes in the motto on the wall.

his restaurant checks. The motto reads, "Better than this there isn't!"

Sam Ashkenaz's Famous "Ashkenaz Blintz Treat"

1 cup flour
1/4 cups water
Pinch salt

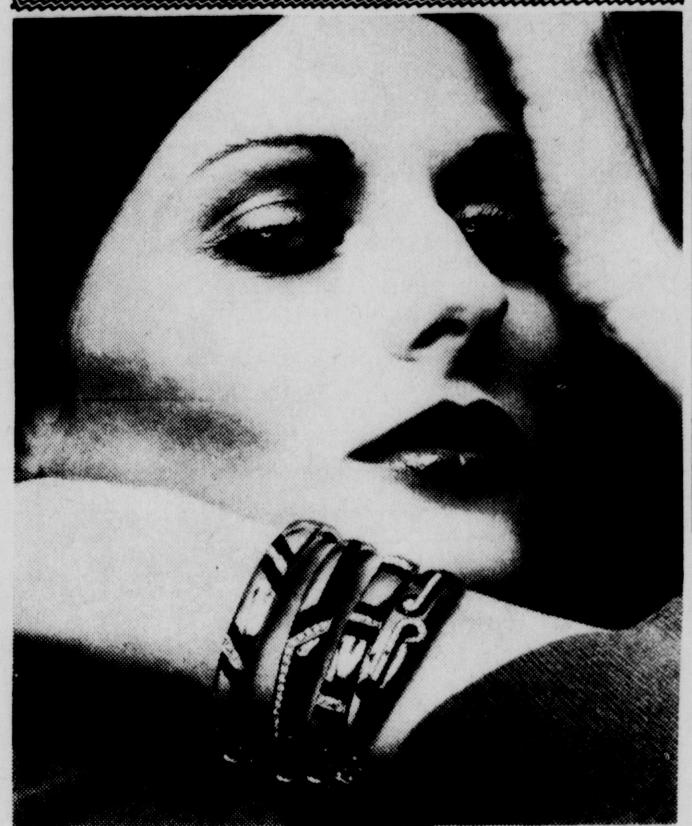

Combine ingredients. Beat well until thoroughly mixed, all the while heating an 8-inch pan over medium fire (three to four minutes). Pan must be hot but not burned. Grease pan lightly with vegetable oil or butter, using towel to apply so all corners of pan are reached. When oil is hot, ladle in some of the mixture on the blintz in a four-inch row. Fold sides over. Roll blintz back to front.

Cheese Mix
2 pounds dried farmer's cheese or dried baker's cheese.
3/4 cup sugar (approximately)
2 eggs (one if cheese is moist)
Mix cheese and eggs, sprinkling a little sugar on top of the mixture as you turn it in. Sprinkle, turn, sprinkle, turn. Lay about four tablespoons of the mixture on the blintz in a four-inch row. Fold sides over. Roll blintz back to front.

Heat a half inch of vegetable oil in pan. Put folded blintz in pan and fry it for one to one and-a-half minutes on each side. Remove, drain on paper towel and place on heated serving platter.

Serve with sour cream (or apple sauce) and sugared blueberries. Makes 12 blintzes.

HIS VALENTINE has something up her sleeve and it looks like a modern diamond bracelet. A grand gift for Valentine's Day is a bracelet, since one knockout bracelet or a slinky stack of them is the complete accessory look for sweaters. There's a certain nonchalance about wearing just one accessory which stands out, in contrast to the cluttered chic of past seasons. This group of gold bracelets has the art deco-inspired motif described in enamel and diamonds.

Forcing club bid runs amuck

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Today's hand from the finals of the team trials shows what happens when a forcing-club system fouls up.

South couldn't open one club and was forced to start proceedings with one diamond. North's two-spade rebid was one of those bids described as fourth-suit forcing and poor South did the best he could by going to two notrump.

Now North finally showed real strength by his jump to four clubs and South jumped to six clubs. He had decided that his partner's bidding was meant to show a void of diamonds. North went to six notrump and West opened a spade.

South won and went after hearts. West ducked the first heart lead, but had to win the second one.

Then West entered into some sort of trance. He had a feeling that somehow or other there might be something wrong with his opponents' bidding. Finally, he led a diamond and East cashed three diamond tricks. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Doctor Says:

Emphysema not contagious disease

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB— Please explain to me what emphysema is and how it affects people. Is it contagious? How is it different from tuberculosis?

DEAR READER— Emphysema is not contagious and is not caused by a germ. Tuberculosis is. However, a person can have both tuberculosis and emphysema.

Emphysema means obstruction of the airways in the lungs. The lung is made up of many tiny air sacs that you can regard as small balloons. These air sacs are where oxygen and carbon dioxide and other gases are exchanged with the blood. To provide oxygen and eliminate carbon dioxide the air in the sacs must be changed constantly.

When we breathe out we expel the air in the tiny sacs and when we breathe in we bring in new oxygen. In emphysema the neck or opening into the tiny sacs is narrowed or constricted. This makes it particularly more difficult to empty the air sacs of old air adequately.

The constantly over distended air sacs results in an over distended chest. A person with longstanding emphysema will have a larger, often barrel shaped chest because of the over inflation. We call this configuration an emphysematous chest. Normally, the chest is flatter, as you can see by looking at your chest again, assuming you do not have emphysema.

The inadequate exchange of air leads to poor oxygenation of the body. The degree of difficulty is directly related to how much old air is trapped in the lungs and how much obstruction to air flow into and out of the lungs there actually is.

Various factors contribute to the obstruction at the opening of the air sacs. Cigarette smoking is a major one.

Poor oxygenation leads to loss of energy and one of the first symptoms of emphysema may be loss of exercise capacity. With mild exertion the victim gets short of breath. As the disease progresses, the difficulty in breathing becomes more marked. Finally these people literally choke to death or spend the last of their days literally gasping for air. There are other complications that can occur along the way, too, which are not any more pleasant.

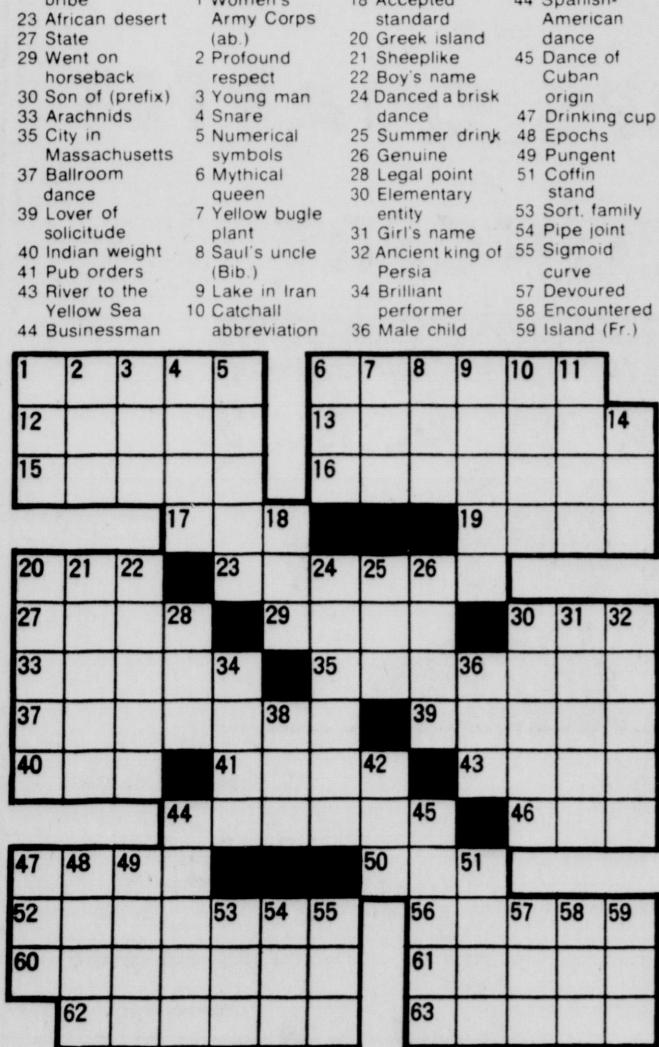

Emphysema may follow a long history of apparent bronchial trouble with cough and sputum, or any evidence of lung disorder may be entirely absent. Weight loss may be a feature as well as breathlessness and loss of exercise capacity.

Treatment is based on removing any and all irritants to the lungs and first on the list is tobacco. Doctors can help in some cases with other means of cleaning up infections and improving lung function. Some medicines are useful in helping to relax the obstruction in the lungs and improve ventilation. None of these measures by the doctor will be successful unless the patient cooperates by stopping smoking entirely or by avoiding other sources of irritants, such as dust, to which he may be exposed.

Seeking to break crime bill deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders of both parties are seeking to break the impasse over bill S1, the proposed consolidation of federal criminal laws, by dropping controversial sections dealing with government secrecy and the death penalty.

A memorandum with this suggestion has been sent to key members of the Senate Judiciary Committee by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Behind-the-scenes negotiations are underway with the outcome uncertain, but there is talk of introducing a new bill stripped of the provisions that have generated major disputes.

Sections under review for possible deletion include provisions to impose the death penalty for treason, espionage, kidnapping and hijacking in which a death results, killing for hire and killing in connection with escape from custody.

Other controversial sections would penalize government employees who disclose classified information. The provisions have been attacked by media spokesmen as amounting to an "Official Secrets Act" that could be used to stifle reporting of government errors and misdeeds.

Altogether, the Mansfield-Scott memo lists 13 subject areas which either would be deleted or compromised in a way designed to eliminate controversies that have clouded the bill's chance of passage. The memo says this may salvage about 90 per cent of the 800-page bill.

The two party leaders are among the original sponsors of the measure, which has been in the works for almost 10 years. The bill codifies and irons out the wrinkles in federal criminal laws that now are scattered through 11 volumes of federal statutes.

An aide to Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., ranking minority member of the Judiciary Committee and chief sponsor of the bill, said Hruska has responded favorably to the memo.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the subcommittee that drafted the S1 measure and reported it to the Judiciary Committee late last year, could not be reached for his reaction to the Mansfield-

Scott memo. So far the full committee has taken no action on the bill.

Meanwhile, another sign that compromise was in the air came today when Sen. Robert C. Byrd, a committee member and the assistant Senate majority leader, urged that the bill be stripped of the sections dealing with espionage and disclosure of classified information.

"I believe the government secrecy sections of S1 should be deleted from the bill and considered in separate legislation," the West Virginia Democrat said in a letter to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-605: Grace J., aged 22, is a legal secretary.

"Dr. Crane," her mother explained, "Grace met a married man about a year ago."

"And she fell madly in love with him the very first time she laid eyes on him."

"She was infatuated and he has merely used her for sexual convenience and to pay his bills."

"Grace says she can't understand why she puts up with all the insults and sexual abuse from him except she seems hypnotized."

"She admits they have very little in common for he already has a wife and children, but she is putty in his hands."

"Dr. Crane, how is it possible for a girl to fall in love at first sight with a total stranger?"

Love At First Sight
Men as well as women may fall in love at first sight.

But the "earned love" method is far superior, since it is the sort of romance that avoids the divorce courts.

When I was only 16, I fell in love at first sight with a cute blonde whom I had never seen before.

It was at a church Young People's Meeting and the girl was not only beautiful, charming and with a perfect set of white teeth in a kissable mouth, but we belonged to the same church and had come up from much the same backgrounds.

Obviously, I didn't know we were compatible when I fell in love with her, which is why such a type of romance can be dangerous.

For you may fall in love with somebody who is totally unsuited to you both in race, religion, background and moral attitudes, as indicated in the tragic infatuation of Grace and this married man.

In love at first sight, the other person is merely the "trigger" that sets off a suffusion of romantic emotions which have previously been "earned" by others whom this "trigger" happens to resemble.

Thus, Grace may have been fond of a brother or cousin or her dad or other male relatives during childhood, all of whom had justified her affection by their kind deeds and generous compliments to her.

So she subconsciously had created a romantic image of a Prince Charming who was a fusion of these male kinsfolk whom she had learned to love as a daughter or sister or cousin.

But the incest taboo prevents a girl from considering marriage to her father or brother or cousins who have "earned" her affection.

So she unwittingly fastens to a romantic "dream man" all the love emotions her male kinsfolk have generated.

And if that stranger happens to "trigger" the release of all those pent up romantic emotions, the girl can literally fall madly in love at first sight.

Maybe the shape of his nose or the way he walks or the shape of his head or the tone of his voice is like that of her beloved kinsfolk.

If so, the stranger releases the girl's love, although he may not at that moment even realize he wields such a hypnotic effect on her heart.

Treated for burns after fire

A Dixon woman was treated and released at KSB Hospital after she was burned in the leg Thursday night during a fire in her garage.

The blaze broke out in the garage of the Bill Miller residence, 520 N. Ottawa Ave. It was believed to have started when a gasoline tank of a motorcycle in the garage ignited. The fire was extinguished before firemen arrived, and damage was listed as minor.

Miller's wife, Marilyn received burns on her leg when the fire broke out.

New strain of VD reported on increase in Illinois

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A relatively unknown, painful strain of venereal disease is being reported in increasing numbers in Illinois, and state health officials say they are concerned.

The disease, called herpes simplex virus II, affects men and women and may cause a painful blister-like sore, said Robert Griffin, chief of the venereal disease section of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

"Venereal disease clinics throughout the state are reporting a higher incidence of the herpes virus," Griffin said in an interview. "And about every third or fourth call on the department's VD hotline is a question related to herpes. By the indications I get, it's increasing."

Griffin said herpes is related to the virus that produces the common fever blister and takes up to about two weeks to incubate.

The symptoms appear as a sore from one-eighth to one-quarter inch in diameter in the genital area, Griffin said. Other smaller sores may appear around the first one.

The blisters may last from seven days to several weeks before disappearing, but then the virus lodges in cells and nerve endings, he said.

"It goes into sort of a latent stage and doesn't reappear until something triggers it," he said.

The trigger could be a nervous condition caused by an intense emotional experience, an many cases of herpes, says doctors in Germany and France are having good luck with a vaccine to combat the disease.

Relief from the painful symptoms can be found by taking aspirin, Griffin said.

Dr. Kumar said he often treats patients by breaking the blister, applying a special dye to the sore area and shining an ordinary light on it for several minutes.

"It seems to work very well," he said.

Dr. Kumar said he also has seen an increase in patients suffering from the herpes virus.

"The first time it is very uncomfortable," he said. "It may produce fever, nausea and painful enlarged lymph glands in the groin."

Dr. Kumar said the virus is especially difficult to deal with because symptoms do not always appear, and when they do, they disappear and return.

It is difficult to determine exactly how many cases of herpes occur in Illinois each year, Griffin explained, because it is not required by law to be reported to the department like the better-known venereal diseases—syphilis and gonorrhea.

However, Griffin said he believes herpes could be occurring as often as gonorrhea, of which there were more than 20,000 cases reported in Illinois. But he said officials generally figure less than half of all cases are reported.

Computer fraud expert to make appearance at NIU

DeKALB — Donn Parker, an expert on computer fraud, will speak at Northern Illinois University next week.

Parker, who has found 144 cases of computer fraud that resulted in $65 million in loss, predicts losses as high as $40 billion each year unless preventive measures are taken.

He will speak about the new breed of white collar crime at a free lecture in Wirtz Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. His talk, "Computer Fraud is Big Business," is open to the public and sponsored by the NIU College of Business.

Parker pointed out one notorious case of computer fraud. It occurred in Illinois with a case-worker, a computer operator and two welfare recipients who programmed a computer to print checks made out to phony recipients. The fraud went on for six months before it was discovered.

It is impossible to learn exactly how many cases of computer fraud are being committed, Parker said. A computer industry spokesman claims that 85 per cent of the computer-related fraud cases are not even reported to police.

Estimates for 1974 showed 339 cases of computer fraud with an average loss of $500,000 per case and a total loss of more than $200 million.

Despite the statistics, Parker says the 339 cases of computer fraud in 1974 compares with a total of 10,181 known cases of fraud in the United States for the same year. Parker says he is dismayed that the details of computer fraud cases have been blown out of proportion.

The FBI is training some of its agents to deal with computer crime. The number of reported cases increased in 1975, but his may be due to better detection methods, he said.

Parker claims that 19 per cent of computer crime is in banking. "A bank's assets have become computer tapes instead of cash and paper securities," he said. The crime is the same, but the form of the assets is new."

Parker is employed as a senior information process analyst with the Information Systems group of Stanford Research Institute, Menlo Park, Calif.

Trap Flap

Should there be restrictions on use of the leghold trap? The leghold trap is a spring-triggered, steel-jawed trap used to snare fur-bearing animals. The House subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation held hearings recently on a controversial bill that would limit the use of these devices. At the hearings, several conservationists testified that the traps cause prolonged animal suffering. Opponents of the bill deny this and claim that the proposed legislation could bankrupt many fur-related businesses. To date, 14 nations have banned the leghold trap. In the United States, several states have passed laws forbidding the use of steel traps with teeth, or otherwise restricting leghold traps.

Thompson calls for public explanation by Mike Howlett

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson says he believes Secretary of State Michael Howlett owes a more detailed explanation of what he did as a part-time consultant to a Chicago-area steel company.

But Thompson said Thursday he hasn't seen any evidence which would lead him to conclude Howlett has done something wrong.

Thompson also said he believed Republicans tipped the balance in Walker's successful primary and general election victories four years ago.

He told the luncheon audience he has discovered in his campaign that the people of Illinois will not support a tax increase this year.

But at a news conference, he said he hadn't changed his position against making what he said are "irresponsible promises" about taxes.

He said he was merely expressing the "near unanimous opinion" of taxpayers against a tax increase in the upcoming fiscal year.

Thompson said if elected he would consider attempts to eliminate waste in the public aid department and duplication in some law enforcement agencies.

Walker plan to move offices in Chicago criticized

CHICAGO (AP) — A U.S. Labor Department official has sharply criticized the Walker administration's decision to move state offices in Chicago as a waste of millions of dollars, the Chicago Tribune reported today.

A Labor Department report authored by its associate regional administrator, John J. Nunnery, called "sheer baloney" Gov. Daniel Walker's claim that leasing for 10 years the old Standard Oil Building on South Michigan Avenue saved several million dollars, the newspaper said.

The Illinois Department of Labor and Bureau of Employment Security moved from the west end of the Loop nearly two miles across the Loop last summer.

A special attorney for the Illinois Department of Finance called the move "a ripoff of the taxpayers" and sought federal intervention in the move, according to the Tribune.

The federal agency undertook its investigation of the leasing after receiving numerous complaints from persons having business with the state Labor Department.

Nunnery said a study conducted by the Walker administration, costing $106,000, which showed the move to be sound was "slanted" in favor of the move, the story said.

The study was prepared by the Comprehensive Planning Corp. of Chicago, whose president, Garry Spain, gave a Walker fund-raising committee $1,000 last March, the newspaper said.

Federal officials found that Michigan Avenue Management, Inc., purchased the Standard Oil building on the contingency that the state would lease it.

The volunteers will, in turn, instruct Lee County residents of current rules regarding driving, beginning on Feb. 16. The course will also be taught at the Lee County Extension Center in Amboy and at the United Methodist Church, Ashton. SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Wheeling the grocery buggy up to the checkout counter, Air Force Maj. Ralph Tosti began unloading it for the cashier:

Twenty-five half-gallons of milk, 16 loaves of bread, nine dozen eggs and 11 boxes of assorted cereals.

The second basket, guided by his wife, Gay, contained more of the same and so did the third.

Each Saturday the Tostis do their grocery shopping and hope they don't run short on any items until Tuesday, when they make their next trip to the market.

The Tostis are one of 25 military families in the San Antonio area involved with the Foster Parent Program. They have 10 children under their roof. Six are their own, four are foster children, given to them for care for an indefinite period.

Their home is not unlike any other where there are children except for a bicycle rack in the yard which contains 10 two-wheelers of various sizes and three tricycles.

Inside the four-bedroom house, located on Randolph Air Force Base, it is quieter than one would imagine for having 12 residents.

In the living room, peering at the 21-inch TV set, are 18 eyes belonging to nine youngsters ages 4 through 16 sprawled on the floor. The youngest, 8 months old, is asleep.

The Tosti family has hosted 11 foster children in all during the past two years. They realize the current four will be with them only for a short time until they are placed back in their natural homes or are adopted by some other family.

"We try to do everything for our foster children we would do for our own," Tosti said.

"When they come into our home, they are coming to join our family as part of it. These kids need a mom and dad who understand and care."

"Some children come to us and other foster parents with emotional problems because they have been removed traumatically from their own environment. The tendency is to withdraw within themselves."

"Consequently, when we receive these children into our home, we are quick to notice abnormal behavior we don't see in our own children. This just emphasizes the need for more training for foster parents so they will be able to cope with these situations."

"Most foster children act quite naturally when they are introduced to their foster homes," Mrs. Tosti said. "After two or three months they start looking at us as if we were their natural parents. It's hard because I start looking at them as one of my own. At some point they start calling you Mom and Dad. I never say that I am their Mom, but I do say I am their foster parent and they will be living with us for a while."

The Tosti children have accepted sharing their home with others as a part of life. Robin, 14, said she thought the whole idea was "neat." The only thing she objects to is the baby-sitting.

"When we have an infant, like we do now, it cuts in on my free time on the weekends. Except for that, I think it's great. Not too many of my friends at school understand about foster parents. When I explain it to them, they usually want to come over to the house after school and meet the kids. Often they try to persuade their own parents to join the foster parent program."

Lincoln proclaimed the equality of God's children.

raham Lincoln was one of our few Presidents who is revered by those of nearly every political persuasion, an achievement envied by most of his successors. His character combined the best of both liberal and conservative philosophies, as displayed by his efforts on behalf of the equality of man and the unity of a Nation. Moreover, evident in all his speeches and actions was his constant reliance upon God's evidence, which sustained his courage enough to reunite an America torn asunder by the most terrible war in our history. He derived his inspiration from Church; and so can you, by your regular attendance on the Sabbath.

Redmen at Region IV meet

The Sauk Valley College Wrestling Redmen will compete in the National Junior College Athletic Association Region IV State Tournament at Waubonsee Community College in Sugar Grove today and Saturday.

Wrestling Coach Chuck Walrath said the entire State of Illinois serves as a region all its own for the NJCAA and the top three individual finishers in each weight class qualify for the national meet in Worthington, Minn., two weeks later.

The Redmen, who have been plagued by flu and injuries the past few weeks and are still nursing some sore shoulders and knees, hope to fill nine of the ten weight classes for the tournament. Terry Gray, Rock Falls, will be competing at 118 pounds. Gray has had the flu recently, but was expected to be in good health by today.

No one will be wrestling in the 126 pound class. Walrath had hoped to have Jeff Fitts, also of Rock Falls, in one of the two lower weight classes, but Fitts couldn't wrestle, go to school full-time, and work 40 hours at Lawrence Brothers all at the same time. So wrestling, that is for Fitts, will have to be postponed for a year.

In the 234 pound class, the Redmen have a question mark. Dave Hooks, Pollo, hopes to be able to compete, but even early this week Walrath still was unsure whether Hooks' knee would get the doctor's OK. At 142 pounds the Redmen have Steve House, Morrison. Early in the year, House wrestled in the 158 and 160 classes. His record was far from impressive, but since he has dropped to 142 he has yet to be beaten at that weight. Walrath said House has a good chance to pull some surprises and place in the state meet.

At 150 pounds is Mike James, Dixon, who has had knee problems recently, but hoped to be okayed this week. According to Walrath, James peaked early in the season, but his record began to slip with the knee problem. "Mike has worked his way back into good shape. He looked great in practice Monday," Walrath said.

Jeff Medema, Fulton, is making a second premiere as a Redman at 158. In the first two meets of the season, Medema compiled a 2-1 record wrestling at 167. He has been bothered with back troubles since and unable to wrestle or practice until last week. "Jeff has kept himself in good shape. If anything will hurt him, it will be the timing and coordination of his moves," said Walrath.

In the 167 pound class is Rod Stiner, who wrestled for Genesee, but who lives in Prophetstown. Stiner dropped from 190 and has enjoyed a .500 season at the two weights. Ed Minertz, who finished second in Class A state tournament last year as a Newman senior, is at 177 pounds for the Redmen. Minertz, with a record of 12-4, has been beaten by only two Illinois junior college wrestlers and has probably the best chance of any Redmen to win a trip to Worthington for the Nationals. "Ed's nursing a sore shoulder and he has had personal tragedy in his family, but he's the kind of wrestler that can overcome such adversity," said Walrath.

At 190 is Bob Fountain, Morrison, who wrestled for Belvidere three years ago and is fresh out of the Navy last months. "Bob's the newest addition to our team. We think he's making good progress after a long layoff and is getting better daily," said Walrath.

And in the Heavyweight class is Mike Cole, a Newman standout of a few years back. Cole, like Minertz, is nursing a sore shoulder but seems ready to go. "Mike is down to 220 now, which is great. He's moving much quicker and with more authority. If he had been 220 earlier this year, his record would be much better than the .500 that it is. Mike realizes that this is his last chance to take a trip to the Nationals and he'll fight very hard to get there," Walrath said.

The Region IV State Tournament will begin with preliminary rounds at 4:15 this afternoon. The semifinals will begin Saturday at noon, with the finals following at 6:30 p.m. There are approximately 20 junior and community colleges competing in the tournament.

Walrath has said he will be very disappointed if the Wrestling Redmen do not finish in the top 10, but would be quite pleased if they could crack the top five. "Joliet, Triton, Waubonsee, DuPage and Black Hawk are all very tough," he said. "But we feel we're as good or better than the other teams in the state."

Kreiner edges Mittermaier

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Canada's Kathy Kreiner edged Rosi Mittermaier by 12-hundredths of a second in the giant slalom today, ending the West German's bid for an unprecedented sweep of the three women's Alpine skiing events. And the United States, blanketed through the first three events, waited in expectation of a gold medal performance by Dorothy Hamill at the 12th Winter Olympics.

Miss Hamill, the 19-year-old from Riverside, Conn., took a commanding lead over Dianne de Leeuw, a Californian skating for The Netherlands, into tonight's final leg of the figure skating — the freestyle.

Miss Mittermaier, the personable 25-year-old veteran of the European ski wars, lost her chance to become the first woman ever to capture the three Alpine ski events. She won the downhill Sunday and the slalom Wednesday. Only two men have ever won the triple, Toni Sailer of Austria in 1956 and Jean-Claude Killy of France in 1968.

"There were a lot of people here who may have expected me to win three gold medals, but I am very happy with two golds and a silver," said Miss Mittermaier. "I had not expected anything like this before the Olympics."

Asked if she had regrets about depriving the popular Miss Mittermaier of her third gold, Miss Kreiner said: "No regrets at all. I think there was some room in there for me."

Miss Cochran, 22, of Richmond, Vt., completed her 12th place run in 1:31.33. Mary Seaton, 19, of Hancock, Mich., was 17th in 1:31.58. Cindy Nelson, 20, of Lutsen, Minn., the bronze medalist in the downhill and considered the top U.S. hope for a medal in the giant slalom, wound up a disappointing 21st in 1:32.02. Leslie Smith, 17, of Killington, Vt., rounded out the American contingent in 27th place in 1:34.54.

Storholt, giving Norway its second gold of the Games, won the 1,500 in Olympic record time of 1 minute 59.38 seconds. Yuri Kondakov of the Soviet Union was second in 1:59.95 and Hans Van Helden of The Netherlands was third in 2:00.87.

Carroll, the 31-year-old veteran from St. Louis, was fifth in 2:02.26. Eric Heiden, of Madison, Wis., came in seventh in 2:02.40 and Michael Woods, 23, of South Milwaukee, Wis., finished 23rd in 2:08.77.

Peter Mueller, who won a gold Thursday at 1,000 meters, was scheduled to go in the last pairing in the race but pulled out with what a U.S. official called an emotional letdown. Dan Immerfall, who took a bronze in the 500 Tuesday, was not entered.

Heiden was entered in this race because Charles Gilmore, of Anaheim, Calif., withdrew during the recent qualifying controversy, saying Heiden was better in the 1,500.

Heiden said he was pleased with his seventh. "I was happy I did as well as I did," he said.

Dixon girls defeat Geneseo

By JIM SPURGEON
Telegraph Sports Writer
The Dixon girls interscholastic varsity basketball team upped its record to 3-1 with a 30-23 win over Geneseo Thursday night at Lancaster Gymnasium. Both teams handled the ball well but neither had a good shooting night.

Geneseo's Gail Griffith scored the game's opening points with a layup after a steal, with 4:45 remaining in the first quarter. Shelly Stenzel scored two more buckets for the visitors, while Lori Heeg tallied Dixon's only first-quarter points as the home team trailed 6-2.

Dixon took command in the second quarter, outscoring the visitors 10-3 as Betsy Flanagan accounted for eight points. Her teammates did a good job of working the ball around Geneseo's zone and getting Flanagan the ball along the base line. Gail Turner scored Dixon's other bucket.

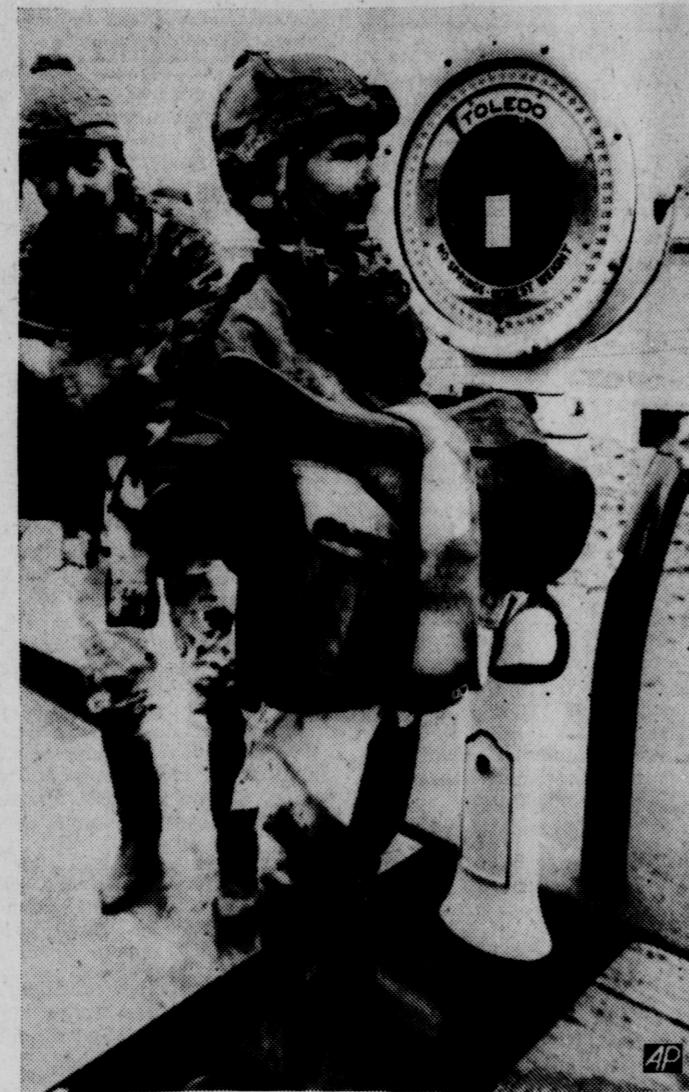

Geneseo's points came on a free throw by Griffith and a basket by Sue Fortune. Dixon had a 12-9 lead at half but Griffith tied the game at 12-12 with a three-point play, with 4:40 to go in the third quarter. Baskets by Marty Shroyer, Flanagan and Judy Nusbaum enabled the home team to grab an 18-14 advantage, after Griffith had put Geneseo up 14-12.

A basket by Deb Mortenson sliced the Dixon lead to 18-16 before the period ended. Dixon put the game away with eight free throws in the final quarter. The home team built a 23-16 lead before Stenzel scored with 3:32 remaining.

Carla White dropped in a free throw, while Mortenson got two baskets in vain in the remaining time to narrow the gap to seven points. Flanagan led all scorers with 12 points, while Heeg added five. Griffith paced Geneseo with eight points, followed by Stenzel with six.

Astrodome concert raises very little for Carter

By STEPHEN FORD
NEW YORK (NEA) — Bob Dylan's heart may be in the right place (or was) but it appears receipts from his spectacular sellout at the 70,000-seat

Astrodome in Houston aren't. The all-star concert was organized by the same people who masterminded Dylan's recent "Rolling Thunder Revue" to benefit imprisoned boxer Rubin

"Hurricane" Carter. But after paying for use of the mammoth Astrodome, promoters' and box office overhead and the impressive array of performers, Carter's defense fund will see a mere pittance of the amount initially earmarked for him.

Performing in the five-hour show with Dylan, along with Revue veterans Roger McGuinn, "Ramblin' Jack" Elliot and Mick Ronson, were Stevie Wonder, Isaac Hayes and Sean Phillips. Muhammad Ali and Redd Foxx were also spotted on stage.

Incidentally, someone really needs to talk to Dylan about his choice of heroes. In 1968, he immortalized legendary badman John Wesley Hardin, who in reality was a homicidal gunslinger but Dylan cast him as a misunderstood Robin Hood. His latest LP includes the deification of departed crime syndicate boss Joey Gallo. It is a ballad portraying "Crazy Joey" as a passionate iconoclast fighting society's oppression. Who's next to be cleansed by Dylan's lyrical redemption, Generalissimo Franco?

Tovarish Superstar: Expect a media blitz from those wonderful publicity sorts who live by wits and hyperbole when they unleash Russian classical pianist Lazar Berman in America. Virtually unknown here before his signing with CBS Records and Deutsche Grammophon two weeks ago, the 45-year-old pianist has been acclaimed throughout Europe in brief appearances, and will release a whopping five albums in
